

Alison Watt Online Workshop

February 20, 22, &24, 2023

Just Add Water – Water Media Workshop

This workshop is designed to help you explore different water media to expand your painting possibilities. By adding a few new materials and techniques to our toolbox, we'll loosen up and add elements of drama and surprise to our paintings.

Using the water media materials, we will explore techniques which include using wet-in-wet (washes and flow), mixing media (watercolor, inks, gouache) splattering, spraying, using resist, mark making with oil pastel, watercolor Pencil, crayon, and India ink, printing, collage, and texture.

Day 1 The Way of Water: working with water to create that gorgeous first layer. Subjects will be: Plant Material (fresh or from photos: leaves, flowers, berries, seeds),

Day 2 Building dramatic layers: working back into the paintings we prepared yesterday, we will explore resist, splattering, spraying, and mark making. Final layers will involve adding glazes, dark values and gouache to paint out negative spaces.

Day 3 Pushing into abstraction: from a starter image of your choice we will use all of the techniques of the first two days, as well as printing and collage, and texture to move towards abstraction.

Alison Watt is a contemporary painter and author who lives on the Salish Sea, the island rich waterway that lies between Vancouver Island and mainland coast of British Columbia, Canada. In her acrylic and mixed media landscapes she strives for complex surface and luminous color.

She has been teaching for 25 years, recently online, offering courses in acrylic and mixed media, as well as watercolor journaling.

She says: A painting practice isn't just about building skills to make good work. Whether we have a studio or work at our kitchen table, art is there to offer us solace, immersion, the challenge of new subjects, new materials. and connection. In making art we instantly connect to the body of the art through time and to other living artists. You can find out more about her courses and her work on her website and watch her videos on YouTube.

Watt's work has been shown in exhibitions and galleries in the Pacific Northwest and has appeared in the books, Carmanah: Artistic Visions of an Ancient Forest and Art for An Oil Free Coast.
